

Story Flying Dutchman.

It was a stormy night at sea and Captain van der Decken wanted to sail out on the Kuyper his crew didn't think that was a very good idea because of the storm. The captain got very mad and even threw one of his own men overboard. While he was shouting: "you need to choose God or the Devil!" What our captain didn't know was that the Devil took in the men he threw overboard. When they were sailing off and they were in the middle of the ocean, some people were saying they could see a ship coming, but they were not sure if it was a ship or an illusion. It kind of looked like a ghost ship. Captain van der Decken they should not talk such nonsense. Until the ghost ship got closer and van der Decken could see it clearly himself. They could see the crew from the ghost ship but they did not look like normal people, they looked dead. Someone was shouting something, it was probably the captain. What he was saying was not very understandable because of the wind. But what you could hear were the words Flying Dutchman and revenge or punishment.

Right after that they started to shoot at the Kuyper.
